PRETTY GOOD GAME

al Boys Badly Rattled at
The Start but Rally and Redeem Themselves

Huntington Hotel tore a hole in the winning hopes of the Tropico team by taking Sunday's game with a score of 8 to 6. This makes only two lost by Tropico since starting, but the loss will add to Tropico's efficiency. It was a good game from start to finish, and the Huntington boys are a good, clean, live set. The Huntingtons went into the game with a hungry look, as if they hadn't had a game for some time. They seemed to have got what they wanted, for before the game was half over they were carrying around a big winning smile. They scored from the start up to the fifth, when Tropico went to the field with a dangerous look in their eyes, which rested on a shut-out. This gave the Tropico boys some hope, but when the Huntingtons ran in two scores in the eighth, the Tropico boys went to bat in the last half with a far more dangerous look in their eye.

The Huntingtons evidently thought a storm was coming up, for they sure did get rattled. Miller went to pieces and Tropico thought it was time to get revenge, and they nearly did it, too! They ran in more scores in that last half than did the Huntingtons in any half. Sisney has the honor of knocking the Huntington out of the game for an hour afterwards you couldn't touch him with a ten-foot pole.

A new player was introduced Sunday, Wayne Bradford, and he proved to be good. He took Bittle's place in left field, and Bittle took Rich's place on third.

THUS IT IS AS IT SHOULD BE.

Many years ago a fair maid lovingly said to the man of her choice, "Whither thou goest I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God." And this saying has come down the centuries warming the hearts of mankind in every age for it is as it should be. Lovingly and trustingly have maids followed their selected mate, and happiness and blessings have attended.

One of the latest young women to make this decision was Miss Hazel Madeline Kelly, of Bangor, Maine, who was recently married in her home city to Mr. Frederick Thurlow Morse, of Topeka, Kansas.

Mr. and Mrs. Morse arrived in southern California the first of this week and are visiting at the home of Mr. C. A. Fellows, 1215 Westchester Place, Los Angeles, Cal., until the comfortable little 7-room bungalow which they are having built at 225 Glendale Avenue, Tropico, is ready for occupancy.

In referring to this wedding the Daily Commercial of Bangor, Me., says:

"The bride was becomingly attired in a beautiful gown of white satin with a court train of brocade, with pearl trimmings and lace brought from Killarney, Ireland. She wore a veil, caught up with lilies of the valley, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid looked charming in a gown of pale blue chamoise, with imported lace trimmings and carried a bouquet of American beauty roses.

"The house was more attractively decorated for the occasion. The parlor was a bower of holly, palms, roses, and smilax, while asparagus fern, and pinks were used to an excellent advantage in the embellishments of the back parlor. Red and green were used tastefully in the dining room.

"Mrs. Morse is the daughter of Mrs. Clara Kelley, and one of Bangor's most popular young ladies, and is a favorite in a wide circle of friends. She is a graduate of the Bangor High School in the class of '08. Mr. Morse is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Morse, Mr. C. A. Morse being the chief engineer of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific R. R. Mr. Morse completed his course this month in the Boston Institute of Technology. He is a young man well and popularly known. The bridal couple have started on an extended wedding trip to York Beach. They will be joined by Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Morse in their private car at Portsmouth, N. H., and will then go to Chicago and pay a visit at the home of the groom's parents, after which they will visit at Topeka, Kan., and go to their home in Tropico, Cal., where they will be at home at 225 Glendale avenue after October 1st.

"Among the out of town guests present at the wedding were the grooms parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Morse, of Topeka, Kansas, who came to this city in Mr. Morse's private car, which is now at Union Station."

Mr. Morse is a hydraulic engineer and it is understood will enter business in Southern California, probably opening offices in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Morse will no doubt prove quite an addition to beautiful little Tropico and they will be welcomed and Mrs. Morse will be made to feel that she has changed from one ocean to the other only for the better.

A PROMINENT WOMAN TALKS.

Mrs. Bradford Woodbridge, the newly appointed chairman of the Federation of Women's clubs is making an appeal to all clubs to take a more active part in the civic life of their respective homes. She says in part, "Among progressive citizens everywhere civics today stands acknowledged as the important factor in bettering conditions under which we live and the health, happiness and welfare of our communities are affected in just such measure as we are concerned in civic advancement. It is not easy to recommend a general plan of civic treatment which will apply from Siskiyou to San Diego for each case, in my opinion, should be treated symptomatically and each club will have to apply the remedy for its special ailment.

Here are a few things she recommends that all can do:

Cleanliness is the first important thing to consider. Provide waste paper cans for your streets and school grounds. Bury the tin cans, don't dump them along the county roads. Organize a junior civic league. Teach the children the importance of a clean city.

After you have become clean and wholesome then begin to beautify. Let there be a tree or flower in every spot in your city where one will grow. Make your school grounds attractive. Work for play grounds. Remember the more play grounds and school gardens the fewer reformations and prisons.

Make large use of your school grounds for social centers. Work for juvenile courts, detention homes and probation officers. Arrange frequent public conferences of men's and women's organizations and invite discussion on how to improve your surroundings. Secure the co-operation of your local newspapers.

Do not black list, but have a white list and lend your patronage to merchants who do not offend your eyes by unsightly bill boards. And lastly, do one thing at a time. Be tactful, agreeable, sane and persistent. Remember the more civic work the less need of philanthropy.

If the foregoing good advice is followed there is plenty of work for the Thursday Afternoon club and the Civic club to keep them active for some time to come.

The first thing to be done at present is to vote for the school bonds so that the needed room may be provided for the school children this fall. Do not leave this important work for your neighbor to do but do it yourself.

A Family Row

Mr. J. McMillan, general manager of the Pacific Electric Railway, is building three attractive homes of the Swiss chalet type on a slightly piece of ground in the North Glendale district.

The largest house will be in the center and will be occupied by Mr. McMillan; those on either side will be occupied by Mr. McMillan's sons-in-law.

What is Your Vote Worth?

Will You Sell Your Vote For A Price Even Less Than A Cotton Plantation Darkey or an Ignorant Immigrant Gets For Theirs? How About It?

What Are You Going to About the School Bond Issues? Are You Going to Allow Your Child in After Years to Say, I Have Been Handicapped all Through Life Because My Parents Were so Onery They Wouldn't take any Interest in School Matters.

Saturday the 19th is the day for voting for or against the Grammar school bonds. The trustees are asking for $20,000 to buy additional grounds and erect needed buildings. The signed statement as to what they propose to do with the proceeds from this bond issue was published in last week's paper.

There seems to be practically no opposition to these bonds and the only thing will be to get enough voters out to cast their vote to assure them being carried. It is a strange thing that good, trustworthy men and women—men and women who are intelligent and progressive—will persistently neglect to vote on bond issues, even when these issues are of the most vital importance. Yet such is the case and until we wake up to our civic responsibilities and duty we must make the best of conditions that we can.

Unfortunately there has developed quite a lot of opposition to the Union High school bonds, and I feel confident that the greater portion of this opposition is due to misapprehension and misunderstanding. No one can convince me that the people comprising the Union High school district are not progressive, enterprising and intelligent men and women. I know they are, in the main, in favor of the best of schools; they want their children and my children to have every advantage that good schools can give them. I do not believe there is even one voter against the board or any member thereof who do not believe they are so dishonest as to steal from helpless children.

Another objection made is that some of the teachers employed are not competent nor qualified. I am not sufficiently familiar with the work of the different teachers to express an intelligent opinion as to this, but I do feel justified in saying that even if this charge is true it would scarcely justify one in voting against the bond issue. If there is any teacher employed that is not competent to fill the position he occupies it should be no great difficulty in having him removed, and I here pledge you that if such is the case you can count on me doing all I can to aid you in having him removed.

Another objection is that within the next few years the outlying portions of the district, especially Tropico and Eagle Rock, will want high schools of their own and that if this proves to be the case there will then be no demand for one big central high school. This objection is worthy of being considered. Speaking for Tropico is it not a safe assumption that if we can have a good school located conveniently, equipped with ample facilities, possessed of sufficient grounds that it will always be to the interest of Tropico to aid in building up and supporting the present Union High school?

If it should withdraw from the Union High school district, as I am informed, the law is so that it closing up a street and have the use of that land, too. During the last few years—since you and I went to school—the method of teaching has experienced great changes; demands to be made on the students going out from the schools are different than what they were fifteen, twenty and twenty-five years ago. The standard of living is different; our boys and girls have different problems to meet than confronted us when we left school. Education is running more to the practical and less to the theoretical—our educators are endeavoring to fit the children for the practical duties of life—to make more real men and women and not so many lawyers, doctors, preachers and kid glove loafers. The idea that it is no disgrace to do an honest day's work is taking possession more and more of the minds of the educators of the land. This is as it should be. To carry out this idea room is needed. The child must be educated out of doors as well as indoors.

Other communities are recognizing this and are adapting themselves to these changing ideals. Our children are going out to meet and hold their own with children educated in these other communities. Do we want them to be handicapped for lack of proper training? Do we want our boy or our girl to enter life lacking the practical education that children from surrounding communities have received? I don't.

What they are doing and have done at Ventura. Are we to lag behind our neighbors?

who would intentionally and premeditatedly vote to keep one child from receiving the best education that our schools can give him.

I honestly believe this, yet unfortunately, as I think, a number of good men and women are thinking of voting against the high school bond issue.

Let us reason together and see if you are justified in doing this. I am in favor of the bonds and we will assume that you are opposed. Let us see who is right and who is wrong.

Let us take up some of the objections advanced in opposition to the bonds and see if these objections are founded on good reasoning and are supported by good policy.

Some say they are opposed to the bonds because they lack confidence in the board of trustees and they express a fear that if $100,000 worth of bonds are voted all the proceeds will not be used legitimately—in plain words they say they fear there will be graft.

I want to make the assertion and to make it unqualifiedly that there is not a voter in the district who believes this—no matter what is said there is not one voter who honestly believes the present board would lend themselves to these funds. I don't care what personal grievance you may have towards the buildings and grounds of the present school. Then it would not only have to own grounds and buildings of its own, but would be forced to meet all the expense, whereas it now only has to meet its proportion of such expense. Then again Tropico, from the nature of its location, can never hope to have a big population, it has no desire nor ambition to be an industrial center, but seeks to be an ideal home community, and as such will never have a congested population. I believe that it is safe to say that unless Tropico is forced to do so that it will never undertake to have a separate high school. This being the case is it not better that Tropico and Glendale work together and build up a high school that will be a credit to the whole community?

Another objection made is that there is no use for additional land, that the needed buildings can be built on the present site. The land that it is proposed to buy will cost, as estimated by the trustees and substantiated by the investigating committee of 30 appointed over a month ago, approximately $25,000. Every one admits that this is a cheap price for the land, and especially so in view of the fact that the school grounds will get the benefit of

It has been stated, and so far as I know has never been contradicted, that less than five per cent of the boys and girls leaving high school go immediately into the world, to make and help make their own living.

Now my friends, think seriously before you put in a vote against the high school bonds, but whatever you do, vote.

During the recent Christian Endeavor meeting, Dr. Ira Landrith, of Nashville, delivered an address in which he made some pertinent remarks. Among other things he said, speaking to the C. E. audience, that the average member sells his vote for less than a bar-room bum or an ignorant southern darkey gets for his. This is a truth from which the whole nation suffers. A man who sells his vote to another gets two or three dollars for it and it often means his food supply for a week. The Christian who refuses to vote because he does not take time to sell his vote for the price of one-half hour's work. A negligent church member is worse than the bum or the negro because he knows better and because he could cast an intelligent ballot. Landrith is right on another important point, which is that voting to please your friend and neighbor when it is against your own convictions to do so is equally as bad as selling

NOT MUCH DOING

Shirt Waist Weather Makes Things Drag but Meeting this Week Important

The regular meeting of the city trustees was held Thursday evening, and all members were present, but owing to the absence of City Attorney Baker little business was transacted.

A letter from the Woodill & Hulst Electric Co. was read, explaining the demand by the Pinkerton Company last month. Upon investigation it had developed that this demand for $9.27 was for electric fixtures, etc., used in the council chamber in 1911.

During 1911 the room now occupied by the trustees was controlled by the Chamber of Commerce, and the trustees rented from the Chamber of Commerce. These fixtures were put in jointly by the trustees and the Chamber of Commerce. Under date of May 31st, 1911, a city warrant for one-half the amount was issued as the city's part of the indebtedness. It is stated by the members of the Chamber of Commerce that they also paid their part, but owing to the absence of Mr. Street, who at that time was secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, the receipt for the chamber's part has not yet been found.

A communication was received from W. C. Cameron, on Acacia street, asking that the trustees cause a gasoline engine on the street, used for pumping water, to be muffled. No action taken.

The following demands were approved and the city clerk instructed to draw warrants for same:

Times Mirror Co.	$ 4.20
E. R. Sinclair	12.50
Pacific Light & Power Co.	104.00
S. C. Brown	29.59
Wayne Frank	17.25
Women's Relief Corps	5.00
J. L. Fishback	4.05

W. H. Evans, city attorney of Glendale, appeared before the board as representative of Wm. O. Hood, who desires to move a garage building, Mr. Evans made a statement of the case as he understood it. R. S. Todd and Frank Peters made statements as to their objections of the garage being moved, which brought out some points Mr. Evans had not considered, so he suggested that the matter go over until next week, so as to give him time for investigation and consultation with City Attorney Baker. After the parties to this controversy had retired from the council room, a tentative agreement was reached to the effect that Mr. Hood would move his garage across the street and put it on the rear end of a lot about 75 feet from the front. Upon request he was informed by the council that they would make no objections to this unless a protest was filed.

In this connection the trustees want it known that they have no desire to work any hardship or inconvenience on any citizen as regards the building ordinance and restrictions on buildings, but where there are objections, and these objections are in conformity with the ordinance and building restrictions, they have no other course to take but to stand by the ordinance and building restrictions.

The statement was also made that some ladies had expressed a wish to appear before the Board of Trustees on different matters, especially the Brand boulevard question, and that the opinion prevailed with some that they would not be welcomed, and the board wants it distinctly understood that this is not true. They want it known that any citizen, man or woman, not only have the right but are requested to visit the Council and discuss any matter at any meeting. Every effort will be made to make the occasion pleasant and agreeable to all the ladies who may come.

CIVIC CLUB MEETING.
The regular meeting of the Civic Club was held Tuesday evening, and a goodly number were present for the purpose of hearing and discussing the report of the Water Committee, on which work has been done for the last three or four months. This report was submitted and fully discussed by the members. Upon motion, it was accepted as submitted, and a committee, consisting of C. T. Van Etten and Harry L. Edwards, appointed to present same to the board of trustees.

A committee composed of Dr. W. C. Mabry and Harry L. Edwards was appointed to prepare a general statement of the Civic Club's position in reference to the water question, and their reasons for approving the report as submitted by the committee.

The report of the committee will be published in full in next week's Sentinel.

out at the polls. His third indictment that the stay-at-home vote is almost universally the intelligent Christian vote is one which must stick until the individual church member shall arise to prove his faith by his works.

What Dr. Landrith said to the Christian Endeavorers will apply with equal force to all others who neglect their civic duties.

Think well before you vote against the high school bonds, but vote.

VENTURA UNION HIGH SCHOOL, VENTURA, CAL.

Nearly every High School District has tried to build for the future and yet the most enthusiastic have not gauged the wonderful growth of recent years. Farseeing men believe we have our most marvelous growth still ahead of us. It then means that in some measure our schools must keep up with rapid growth in population. Ventura, the capital of "Beandom," has acquired a fine site of fifteen acres and erected the administration, the first unit of a fine group. Scores of cities of Southern California have erected splendid high schools in the last few years. Pasadena acquired eighteen acres and expended a half million on buildings and equipment. Santa Monica has just completed a three hundred thousand dollar high school. South Pasadena is now adding two fine structures to her high school facilities. Ontario has recently completed a quarter million group of high school buildings. Venice expects soon to purchase at least twenty acres and expend two hundred and fifty thousand in her high school enterprise, and so the list might be lengthened. Our trustees are only trying to keep pace with actual needs, and not let our near neighbors outdistance us in their school opportunities. A vote for the bonds on the 22nd will say to the world that our valley believes in the best educational advantages extant. Surely every public spirited citizen wants our boys and girls to have equal opportunity with those of our neighbors. Our high school has been doing effective work, but if it is to continue to increasing numbers it must have more facilities, this is mandatory. Look about and note the growth of the valley, surely the demands on the high school have grown correspondingly and more room is imperative. Mr. and Mrs. Voter remember July 22nd and lend your aid and vote to this worthy project, it deserves the hearty support of every public spirited citizen—will you give it?

G. A. R. AND W. R. C. PICNIC.

On Friday, July 25th, the N. P. Banks Post, No. 170, G. A. R., in conjunction with the W. R. C. No. 67 Auxillary to the same, will hold their annual picnic at Echo Park. All members and their friends and their friends' friend are invited to attend. Bring a well filled basket and come early. Dinner will be served promptly at twelve-thirty, and will be followed by a program which promises entertainment and enjoyment for all. This picnic takes the place of the July "all-day" meeting. Joshua Haskell, one of our G. A. R. veterans, who was admitted to the hospital at the Soldiers' Home, Sawtelle, last Tuesday, is a little improved. Comrade Haskell, is a brother-in-law of Mr. Henry Duffield, and lived on Lomita avenue in Glendale. B. F. Force, another member of our N. P. Banks Post, whose home is on Penn avenue, was admitted to the hospital at the Soldiers' Home, on Saturday. He is also improving.

A trophy cup valued at $1000 offered by the San Diego Exposition to the creator of the finest unnamed rose shown in 1915 has interested rose originators all over the world, and already some of the greatest cultivators in the great rose countries are preparing wonderful contributions. Another unique exhibit arranged for is that showing the olive from its growth, through its processes to the market, and an equipped orange house with, possibly, a practical fruit canning establishment in operation throughout the period of the exposition.

The cotton crop of Imperial Valley has doubled over last year. The acreage is 14,000 or fifty-five per cent more than last year. This increase is proportionally the largest of any section in the United States.

Panama is now famous for two things—hats and canals.

The city council of Los Angeles has ordered prosecution begun against private water companies that are unable to, or refuse to supply their customers with sufficient water and at the same time refuse to buy the needed water from the city. It is said that the controversy between Ralph Rogers, of the Glassell Water Co., and the Glendale Consolidated Co., has brought this matter to an acute stage. The Glendale company supplies water in Bairdstown and vicinity, which is within the city limits of Los Angeles, hence this action by Los Angeles.

There is considerable complaint being made against the photograph solicitors who come out from the city and work the people on the old gag of the "50 cent" coupon. That is you pay the solicitor 50 cents and he gives you a coupon good for one picture. You go to the photographer and he takes the photograph but before you get away you are 999 times out of 1,000, out much more than the 50 cents. We have some of the best photographers in the United States in Tropico and Glendale. Let us save out 50 cents for them. Pay for what we get and refuse to be worked by a smooth talking individual who wants our 50 cents and after he gets it never thinks of us again. If this class of people continue their operations in the city it might not be a bad idea to have them contribute to the support of the running expenses of the city. People doing a legitimate business have to do so; why shouldn't they?

The people of Tropico still continue to pay an exorbitant price for ice. The ice situation has been relieved to a certain extent by a few more days of agreeable weather, but the concern still continues to much Tropico in an apparent high-handed manner. If it were possible to arrive at the actual fact of the ice situation, it would be about as follows:

The local concern pays wholesale $2.50 a ton. The expense of getting it out from the city and into the warehouse is, at the very outside, $2.00 a ton. That makes the cost of the ice $5.00 a ton, or $2.50 a thousand. Estimating that the cost of delivering is 10c a hundred, and the wastage is 10c, that would be 20c a hundred for wastage and delivery, or $4.00 a ton, making, at the very outside, $9.00 a ton. The people of Tropico are paying, when they buy in large quantities, $13.00 a ton; when they buy in small quantities, about $20.00 a ton. A nice little profit on a staple article that is an actual necessity; but worst of all is the refusal to sell in less quantities to 15c. This is a positive hardship on the poorer class of people. Fortunately, Tropico has not many of this class, yet the few it has are entitled to consideration and protection. A city of over 3,000 population, and only one concern can be prevailed upon to sell ice within its limits! Can anyone deny that there is "a nigger in the woodpile" somewhere? Of course, there is no law to force anyone to sell ice, but the law of trade, if unhampered, would undoubtedly cause more than one man to sell ice in Tropico. Don't you think so?

WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT IT?

Last Sunday's street car accident was a deplorable affair. Deplorable not only because of the heavy toll of life and limb, but deplorable because of that which led to the catastrophe. In due course of time, no doubt an official investigation will be held and its verdict given to the public. Probably a verdict in keeping with the Long Beach affair.

On Sunday evening men, women and children were returning from the beaches. Every car was crowded and jammed. On the ill-fated train the cars were packed with from 100 to 127 to the car with capacity of from only 50 to 60. Every car was carrying double its capacity. It is stated that the motorman running the rear train was comparatively a new man, receiving a salary of 25 cents an hour, or $2.50 for a ten hour day, less than the cheapest laborer on the street gets; he had been on duty for seventeen hours, yet this man was entrusted with the lives of hundreds of people; was given a high power electric train and told to make time. Whose fault was it that the trains collided?

Whose fault is it that these trains and practically every other train of street cars are crowded to the danger point? Whose fault is it that men are worked long hours and beyond human endurance? Whose fault is it that a wage for such positions is paid which is less than the most incompetent, unskilled laborer receives?

Whose fault is it that cars on every line are crowded to such an extent during every rush hour that it is a physical impossibility for the conductor to look after his train properly?

You know and I know. We know; but what are we going to do about it? Drift along the same old way? Perhaps next time it will take toll of some of our loved ones but we can't help it. If we did anything it might cause us to lose five cents in some

DELIGHTFUL SWITZERLAND.

I am writing now from Bale, as it is called by the French and Basel by the Germans, at the home of a kind Swiss family whose guest I have been the last few days; this good fortune being due to a cousin of theirs who is a dear friend of mine in California. I am enjoying this opportunity to learn something of the people of the land very much. Hotel life is almost identical throughout all the journey. The only thing that changes much with the different countries is the servant. Otherwise the traveler finds everything the same and the rapidly changing tourist crowd has little interest for him.

The city of Bale, one of the foremost industrial and commercial towns of Switzerland, is divided by the Rhine river into two parts, the larger on the left bank being the center of traffic and intellectual intercourse, and the smaller, Klein Basel, on the right being the seat of the industrial life of the town. One does not find these streets crowded with the sightseers, as I have seen at Lucerne and Zurich, but here it is the industrial class and also the student, for Bale is an ancient seat of art and learning. It has magnificent schools, and a university, founded in 1459.

This evening I had a very interesting hour and a half at "Gemeinsames Konzert in Münster." The Bale minster situated on a height on the Rhine, was formerly a Roman Catholic cathedral, the oldest portion dating from the twelfth century, and is now the chief Protestant church. After the earthquake of 1356 it was rebuilt in Gothic style and is now a very charming edifice. We arrived a few minutes before eight, the hour of commencing, but we found the church packed full. My host, though, had secured tickets in the afternoon, and so after we had entered, very good places were found for us. Being, as it is, the middle of June, the days are very long and it was still light outside, so I had a chance while waiting to enjoy the stained glass windows, a number of them by Gsell, which were very beautiful.

The first number on the program was by a very large chorus and the song was "Es sang von alten Zeiten." The program gave the German words of the song, so it was easy to follow. The next part, "Der Frühling ruft!" (the Spring is calling) and "Ein altes Lied" (an old Song) was by Gesangschor des Arbeiterinnenvereins. Now it was just beginning to dawn on me to what I was listening. There were no evening clothes in sight, but this attentive audience, who never spoke a word after the first word of the song, were mostly working people, who were there to listen to the singing of their friends and relatives. This last was by the "Frauenchor," way. We might lose a customer, or some one press us on a note or account we owe.

We are to blame for that terrible calamity—you and I, yes, you and I. We permit conditions to exist that we know are liable to result in such accidents at any time. We allow public service corporations to run our business, for without us there would be no public service business, in such a manner that we know only evil can come. Yet we remain indifferent, too busily occupied with our own little affairs to bother about such things.

Just so long as we are indifferent we cannot expect corporations to do differently. Why should they? Corporations are made up of people like you and I and if we would do the same thing, if given the chance, why should we blame those in charge of corporations. We should blame ourselves. We are the guilty parties. Until we can have an aroused public conscience and become humanized sufficiently so, we can place the man before the dollar we can expect a repetition of such events as the Venice street car wreck.

WE NEED AN IMPROVEMENT

The proposed currency legislation is of most vital moment to the whole country. It is a question demanding the loftiest patriotism and soundest judgment. It is but natural the new bill should create a division of opinion.

Mr. Untermyer, the money trust hunter, approves the bill, and so does Mr. Bryan, who is glad it is "written from the standpoint of the people, rather than the standpoint of the financiers," and adds that the only two classes who can object are "those who dispute the right of the people to issue through their government the money which the people need, and those who, distrusting the representatives chosen by the people to guard the public welfare, would deny the government officials control over the issuance of emergency notes." But a number of papers have no hesitation in saying they do distrust "the representatives chosen by the people to guard the public welfare." In fact, they call them "politicians," and frankly aver that they are not to be trusted with the financial control of the United States. They object, in short, to the proposed absolute Federal control of the regional reserve banks by a board consisting of the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Controller of the Currency, and four other members to be appointed by the President.

The New York Herald, which maintains that the present measure puts not so much the government, but the president himself, "into absolute control of all the country's machinery of banking and currency," and adds:

"It is a joke on those who objected to the concentration of authority involved in a central bank—this proposal to make the Central Reserve Board consist of three governing Federal officials appointed by the president and four other members, all to be chosen by him with the advice and consent of the Senate. The president, moreover, is to control six of the nine directors of every one of the twelve regional reserve associations. And the Central Board—all of his appointment—may require any one of these banks to rediscount the paper of another, regulate the issue of Treasury notes to them, and put any of them into the hands of a receiver. This is surely some centralization."

President Wilson has given his reasons for the proposed measure and from his address the New York Commercial calls especial attention to the following sentences:

"It is absolutely imperative that we should give the business men a banking and currency system by means of which they can make use of the freedom of enterprise which we are about to bestow upon them."

"We are about to set them free by removing the trammels of the protective tariff."

"It is not enough to strike the shackles from business. We must show that we understand what business needs."

"The tyrannies of business, big and little, lie within the field of credit."

"We must have a currency, not rigid as now, but readily, elastically responsive to sound credit, the expanding and contracting credits of every-day transactions."

"Our banking laws must mobilize reserves; must not permit the concentration anywhere in a few hands of the monetary resources of the country. The control of the system of banking and of issue must be public, not private, must be vested in the government itself, so that the banks may be the instruments, not masters, of business."

The Louisville Post says the bill should pass because "it is mild, it moves, and it moves in the right direction."

The Richmond Times-Dispatch holds that under the hammering and exposition of congressional debate and pressure of intelligent conservative popular sentiment, the centralization feature may be modified into Federal regulation, which is recognized as essential, in lieu of power of Federal dictation. Until then, this paper thinks, we should suspend definite conclusion or commitment for or against the measure.

Probably nothing is so needed by the country as a whole as is reasonable modernized currency legislation. It's a big subject and needs big men to handle it and before a satisfactory bill can be expected every class of society must be considered. So-called big business and big financial institutions have rights and these rights should be and must be protected. Equally so does small business and labor have rights and these rights must be safeguarded.

The currency question is not a partisan question, but a question for statesmen and patriots to settle.

the women's choros and that long German word, Arbeiterinnenvereins, meaning "Working women's club." They were all dressed very neatly in white and sang very well indeed. The following song, "Das Land der Ahnen" (the country of the forefathers) was so well rendered by a chorus of street car employees, "Strassenbahner-Mannchor," and number four was "Dort liegt die Heimat mir am Rhein" (there lies my home on the Rhine) by the Mannchor Typographia, the printers.

Just here by friends, with whom I was, were hesitating to find the English word for a German expression, when a sweet young girl near by spoke up and gave it. So then we two had a number of pleasant snatches at conversation during the intermissions between the remaining pieces. She had belonged to one of these singing clubs before she had gone to America seven years before and was now back on a few months' visit to her parents and old friends, having brought her two boys with her, of whom she spoke very proudly. She said she had been homesick ever since she had left Switzerland but now she was entirely cured and would be happy and content when she returned to her husband in New York. I could not find just what it was about the States that appealed to her except the large opportunities, for, Switzerland is so wonderful.

The next song was "In die Berge" (in the mountains) by "Gemischter chor Edelweiss," a chorus of men and women who had taken "Edelweiss," the famous Alpine wild flower, for their club name. Here is a translation of the names of some of the remaining numbers, for it will give some idea of the theme of the Swiss songs: "Spring and Love," "In the Still Valley," "The Banner Ahead," "The Day Says Good-night," "The Morning's Awakening." At the close a large chorus of about three hundred, consisting of several of the clubs, joined together in the "Sturmchor" (the storm song).

I wondered if we had any such signs for our love of music at home and this evening's entertainment was nothing special for Bale. These people were preparing to go to the twenty-fifth annual "Bund" where the best choros will be "dessangerfest" in St. Gallen, awarded a handsome and valuable prize. I was told that the building held three thousand people when a world peace conference met there last year, and I am sure there were at least that many in the audience this evening, for the galleries and every little space were filled, and, as I mentioned before, the people were most attentive listeners. I had so enjoyed each number that I wanted to show my appreciation by clapping, but there was perfect quietness when the song ended, for it was printed on the program that we were requested not to do so, as we were in a church. I learned that there were much better trained choruses amongst the people of more leisure, but I had been very well pleased with this, for the singing had been very good and the people so unpretentious. And it is only with the help and co-operation of those who made up this evening's choruses that there is the possibility of the other class.

The crowd dismissed quietly, but we lingered and went about the walls to look at the old tombs of knights and bishops and nobles of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. From here we walked around behind the Minster thru the beautiful Gothic cloisters to the "Pfaltz," where we enjoyed a fine view of the Rhine with the three Bale bridges. The lights of Klein Basel were reflected in its waters and the moon was shining brightly, so we returned home with the memory of a very charming picture.

With the Advertising Man

A young man, thirsting for information, once asked a sage how to prevent a shotgun from scattering. The wise man replied, "Put in a single shot." This is a good thing to remember in advertising any business. Don't try to sell out the entire stock at once. First, because the usual force of salesmen would be insufficient, and second, you couldn't do it anyway. The object of advertising is to get customers; the purpose of advertising is to sell something, either through orders received from the readers of the ad or by creating a demand for the advertised goods. In some lines the trade of housekeepers would be the chief purpose, in others the mechanic. In each issue of the Sentinel, under this head, an article will appear, containing practical suggestions. This article will cover Dry Goods.

DRY GOODS ADVERTISING SHOULD BE CONTINUOUS. Space to be used should be governed by the size of the store and the seasons. The merchant should so advertise and conduct his business that whenever the women of the locality want good goods, or their choice of a large variety, they will come to him just as quickly as they would go to a department store. His ads should tell the quality of his stock; the variety of patterns, then point out that at the prices quoted he is offering values. The ad should be descriptive, should tell all the good points of the article, and suggest its use or desirability. Above all things change the copy in each issue. Women are buyers of dry goods and they will read anything that conveys real information about things that interest them. While he cannot continuously imitate the bargain counter methods of the department store, his occasional cut-price sale attracts a desirable class of new customers, and constant advertising holds the old.

A party of former Tennesseans but now of Los Angeles, enjoyed a house party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Griffin on West Acacia avenue over Sunday. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Overholser, Miss Belle Chamberlain, Messrs. Will Hudson and Chas. Overholser.

HAPPENINGS

Mrs. Claude Case, 105 South Maryland avenue, Glendale, entertained a small party of friends last Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Eugene Cordary and Mrs. Olschhausen, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Tresslar, are in the city visiting their parents and friends. Both ladies are residents of Los Angeles and will remain for some time.

Mr. E. T. Tresslar, the well known photographer on North Brand boulevard, is slowly recovering from a severe sick spell that worried his relatives and friends for several weeks and kept him away from his business.

Gregg Wilber of Tropic was one of the victims of last Sunday's street car accident. His leg and chest were crushed, but it is reported that the injuries are not serious and that he will shortly be able to be out.

Harry Turner and little daughter, Beatrice, accompanied by their aunt, Miss Johnson of West Acacia avenue, enjoyed an outing at the beach last Thursday.

Samuel I. Boring, who has been spending a few days with his family on Blanche avenue, has returned to his business interest in Visalia, Cal.

Van Nuys, Cal., has ambition of rivaling Petaluma in years to come. The poultry industry is assuming some proportions in that community.

H. C. Borthick and daughter of Johnson County, Missouri, are visiting at the home of his brothers, S. L. and W. E. real estate dealers and Petaluma, Cal. Mr. Borthick is favorably impressed with this locality but interests in the East make a return necessary.

At the meeting of the K. of P. lodge Monday night, H. G. Van Meter, resigned as vice-chancellor, and Prelate Wayne Frank was elected to the chair. Master of Arms Ralph Robinson was advanced to the prelate's chair, and Noble Ripley was elected master of arms from the floor.

Mrs. Helen Kane with the Glendale Consolidated Water Co., was a victim of Sunday's street car accident. Mrs. Kane suffered a broken arm and leg.

Twenty-six members of his immediate family gathered together at the home of C. C. Chandler, 108 West Cypress street, for a happy, joyous time, last Sunday afternoon, to commemorate Mr. Chandler's birthday. A son, L. O. Chandler, of Elizabeth Lake, and his family, being the only ones absent.

Mrs. O. M. Carpenter of Central avenue had as guests Sunday afternoon her cousins Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Fulkerson and sons, Ralph and Robert, of Los Angeles; her sister, Mrs. W. A. Funk of Kansas City, Missouri, and her parents, Mr and Mrs. R. L. Milligan of Park avenue.

Frank E. Beyea, 1426 W. Fifth, is the proud father of an eight-pound girl, which Mrs. Beyea presented to him last week. Frank says that it is now more necessary for him to move houses than ever.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Milligan, 114 East Park avenue, entertained with an old-fashioned New England dinner in honor of their daughter, Mrs. W. A. Funk of Kansas City, Mo., last Wednesday evening. The following guests sat down to the table: Mmes. Hershberger, Nelanger, Salsbury, and Miss Mildred Hershberger of Los Angeles; Mmes. Nathan, Henry, Johnson, Hammond, Carpenter and Tresslar of Tropic, and Miss Elvis Coffman of Ft. Scott, Kansas.

Elliot Cotter, 22, 118 Sotello street, and Miss Margaret Sweeney of 215 East Ann street, Los Angeles, were killed while riding a motorcycle one-half mile this side of Burbank last Saturday evening. The machine collided with a wagon and the mangled bodies were found in the hay. Failure to have tail lights on the wagon was the cause of the disaster. The bodies were taken to the Burbank hospital and then to the Pulliam Undertaking parlors at Glendale where they were later claimed by the parents of both parties and removed to Los Angeles.

Harry Lynch, of the contracting department of the Pacific Light and Power Co., at Glendale, will have charge of the installation of the new power plant in Burbank. The city lately voted bonds to the extent of $200,000 for lighting purposes and have secured the money and work will be started at once and rushed to completion. Mr. Lynch also has the work in charge on the 180 new lights to be installed in Casa Verdugo. This work will be up to the minute as all cables are to be placed underground.

Who says the real estate business in Tropic is at a standstill? Monday the firm of McAdams Brothers consummated a deal which makes J. J. Burke, the contractor and builder, owner of 461 acres of some of the finest wheat land in Franklin county, Washington, and Miss Kate M. Boden, of Casa Verdugo, the owner of five lots and two houses on Moore avenue and one house and lot on Dumbarton. Mr. Burke has no intention of leaving Tropic and only made the deal for real estate purposes. Tropic has too many alluring advantages to make any arrangements to leave. McAdams Bros. are hustlers for the growth of this city and will be heard from many times in the near future.

Mrs. Wm. Hedges entertained the following ladies at her home, 121 East Park avenue, last Friday afternoon: Mmes. Hershberger, Nelanger, Salsbury, Misses Nettie Shinn, and Mildred Hershberger of Los Angeles; Mmes. Milligan, Carpenter of Tropic, and Mrs. Funk of Kansas City. Mrs. C. J. stillness in the evening the gentlemen joined the ladies at dinner. The gentlemen present were: Messrs. Theo. Hershberger, R. L. Milligan, Claude and Healy Robinson, Roy Hershberger and Wm. Hedges.

With prices on California deciduous fruits in eastern markets ranging from $1500 to $2000 per car and an estimated output to be shipped from the state of 14,000 carloads, pessimists who predicted a poor season will have to draw in their horns. For these 14,000 cars at present prices will bring for California growers something like $28,000,000, and that should help some to keep the wheels of progress turning.

Railroad companies are calling upon shippers to co-operate that there may be a full supply of cars. If cars are loaded and unloaded promptly, there will be plenty to go around, but only prompt release of cars once loaded will allow the crop to move easily and rapidly. An especial appeal is made at this time to prevent congestion and it is believed that users of railroad equipment will respond.

The Southern Pacific company reports the movement over its lines eastward of 129 cars during three days of this month and states that shipments are now going forward at the rate of from 40 to 60 cars daily. The season is two weeks earlier this year than last, and the yield is heavier. Plums are most important in quantity, but will soon be replaced at the head of the list by pears. Next in order come peaches, together with the last of the cherries and apricots. Shipping began a month ago and will continue until November, the maximum being reached when the grape crop is at its height in October.

The Rev. Frank P. Goodspeed, D. D., of the First Presbyterian Church of Oakland, Cal., has been spending a couple of weeks in Southern California. While here Dr. Goodspeed delivered two sermons at the Emanuel Presbyterian Church in Los Angeles, and also visited the Rev. and Mrs. Goodsell of Tropic. Mrs. Goodsell being an old Oakland acquaintance of the doctor's. Dr. and Mrs. Carnes, of the local church, were invited to meet the distinguished visitor, and took him for a sight-seeing trip through Tropic and surrounding valley. Needless to say that Dr. Goodspeed expresses himself as being agreeably surprised at what he saw and returned to his northern home full of enthusiasm for Tropic.

Tropico's Gain

Covina lost to Tropic last week when Mr. and Mrs. Norton Marshall decided that our "City Beautiful" was the better city in which to live. They are "at home" now to their friends at the attractive little bungalow on West Acacia avenue with Mrs. Marshall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. LaFountain.

GLENDALE CELEBRATES.

Thursday is the day set aside for Glendale citizens to celebrate and as a consequence all stores will be closed and with a big basket of lunch everyone will go to Verdugo Park and put in the whole day in a great big round of pleasure. The Chamber of Commerce is behind the affair and from all reports this event will become a habit.

OPENING NEW TOWN

Adams & Shear, engineers, 232 Security building, Los Angeles and Tropic, have just been engaged by the Imperial Valley Syndicate to lay out a new town four miles south of Imperial Junction, which is to be named Date City. The Imperial Valley Syndicate owns 12,000 acres of valley land in this section. They propose to devote it to date culture. Three hundred acres will be used for town purposes and a modern city will be built on same. The land will be subdivided and sold in small parcels for date raising.

ARE YOU GUILTY?

It is said that history repeats itself, and evidently it is true because to the casual observer watching the women of Los Angeles on the streets, the black patch on the face has again made its appearance. To be sure, it is very tiny but still it is being used extensively. I wonder how many women who wear these black patches know when and where the fashion originated.

It is supposed to have come from Arabia and was introduced into western civilization during the reign of Charles the First, and women were led to disfigure their faces obeying a blind compliance to the fashion of the day. In England, during the time this ridiculous fashion was in vogue, old and young, the maiden of sixteen and the grey haired grandma covered their faces with these black spots, shaped like suns, moons, stars, crosses, and lozenges and some even carried the mode to the extravagance of shaping the patches to represent a carriage and horses prancing over the forehead.

It is to be hoped that the women who have the right to vote and the intelligence of this age to instruct them will not allow themselves to adopt this foolish fashion again and disfigure in any such way their beautiful faces that need no such adornment.

COURT NEWS.

Monday in Judge Melrose's court, Joe Keele was bound over to the Superior Court in bonds of $2500 on a charge of embezzlement preferred against him by the Martin Livery on San Pedro street in Los Angeles. It appears that Keele hired a horse and buggy of Martin for two hours and at the end of the time failed to show up. Martin let the matter go for a day and then notified the sheriff's office and at the same time Deputy Constable Purier of Burbank had picked up a stray man and horse at Calabassa and the prisoner had been taken to Tropic where Martin was notified. Upon his arrival he identified the horse and man. Keele had driven the rig to Burbank and left the buggy, renting a saddle and left on horseback. At Calabassa, however, his sight seeing trip ended. Keele claims to be a native of British Columbia and having been in Los Angeles only three days. He states his age as only 18, but looks much older.

HAVE YOU TRIED IT?

Is it not remarkable how slow the average person is to take up something new. I have read many times in the household departments of different magazines of the value of the plain every day marbles, or as the children call them "pewees," as an aid in cooking anything that needs constant stirring. But it seemed so simple I never gave heed to this suggestion until recently. I was making some rich preserves and as other household duties demanded my attention, I remembered the marbles and put them in the preserves. The result was perfect, no burning, no sticking to the bottom of the pan but as fine preserves as though I had spent several hours over the hot stove stirring them. The heat keeps the marbles in motion and prevents the fruit sticking to the vessel and then burning.

Hereafter I am a strong advocate of marbles and shall follow St. Paul's admonition "to try all things and hold fast to that which is good."

HOW IT WORKS

The citizens and business men of East Glendale have organized themselves into a rousing and enthusiastic committee and are devoting much time and energy to the matter of securing money in order to make the new proposed street car line a reality. Up to last Saturday night some $17,239 had been subscribed and the committee were working like beavers to make up the necessary amount. The work up to date has been heavy on the Glendale people and so far but a small amount of work has been done in Tropic. What is needed here is a committee who will go ahead and make this end of the road come up to the standard. We have a big future and already movements are on foot to boost the town to the skies this fall. The property owners along the right of way are for the line and the city as a whole commends the proposal, which means not only much to the people who live in the eastern part of the city, but will bring a better service to the entire city. Let's get busy.

The proposed line will enter Tropic at San Fernando Road, crossing east to the hills and following the contour to Cypress street across the gravel pit through the center of the Boynton tract to Moore avenue at a point in line with Adams street and joins the Childs estate at Acacia, thence straight north to Fifth, where it will swing over back of the key lots south of Broadway and connecting with the Eagle Rock tracks at Broadway and Glendale.

HEALTH OFFICER'S TALKS.

No. 3.

"Three" is a charmed and charming number, one about which the popular fancy fingers almost as lovingly as with "seven" and "thirteen." The "three B's" of our school days, "three's a crowd," "three in a bed," "three sneezes," "third time's the charm," etc.—you know all about it.

Some time ago we cleaned up Tropic, taking out over a hundred wagon loads of tin cans, bottles, etc. It was chiefly to avoid flies, mosquitoes and "kicks." We also crowded up our courage to the sticking point and discarded upon "home hygiene" before the Thursday afternoon Club. At that time we inveighed against the flies, mosquitoes and fleas. Possibly a third whack at these pests may do some good, and to save time and effort these warm fly-days let us quote some extracts from the aforesaid discourse to the T. A. C.

"In the dining room and kitchen, on the sleeping baby's face, the fly, which we all delight to 'swat,' draws upon itself our most heartfelt oburgations. But why? Chiefly because it irritates us in one way or another. Few really rail at the fly because the invisible points of its many-jointed feet are the possible carriers of untold millions of deadly disease germs; but because this is a fact, and the flies can deposit these germs on any food or surface they traverse, makes them the most virulent foe of home hygiene. Flies come from filth. Manure improperly used as fertilizer about lawns, orchards and gardens, or allowed to accumulate about stables, is productive of most of these pests. Other filth provides them with food, but in such material they breed.

"Methods of destroying them:
"1. Burn bottles, cans and general rubbish to deprive them of food.

"2. Manure spread thinly in the sunshine will not breed flies, because the necessary combination of warmth and moisture is absent.

"3. Screen your houses and food supplies, killing such flies as gain entrance with 'swatters,' fly-paper and traps.

"Mosquitoes breed wherever a drop of water can stand undisturbed, in old cans, broken bottles, even a heel-print in moist ground. The measures directed toward the destruction of mosquitoes may be summed up in three words: Screens, fire and oil. Screens to prevent them from biting humans, fire to destroy their lurking places in weeds, tall grass, etc., while an infinitesimally thin coating of oil on water frequented by them will prevent their propagation by smothering the larvae.

"Bubonic plague, the black death, which should make us all shudder, and it is an ever-present menace in California, is transmitted through the bites of fleas. Not the ordinary dog or cat fleas, but those of the rats, ground squirrels and various other rodents chiefly. While these infected fleas, leaving a dead host, live in the dirt and dust until the opportunity for transferring their affections to some live one presents, that home which proscribes rodent pets, that house built vermin-proof at the cost of a few extra dollars, is well insured against plague."

THE HEALTH OFFICER.

It frequently happens that in time of sudden and apparently great danger, when no material aid is within reach, the person involved turns unconsciously to a power higher than his own, of which he has no definite idea, but which he hopes will assist him in his extremity. His thinking is quickly done—a flash of intelligence shows him a way whereby he may extricate himself from his perilous situation, and men speak of this as an exhibition of "rare presence of mind." Alas! that mankind should be so ignorant or forgetful of the Mind that fills all space—that never slumbers nor sleeps.

Coming, Iowa, pays the boys of the town so much a pound for all the dandelion plants they bring in, root and all. As a result the town is almost free from the dandelion pest.

A small quantity of baking soda in the brick dust will help quite a little in cleaning the knives.

Clean up all scraps and dirt around the house, thus giving the flies nothing to live on, and they will be much less in evidence.
